Make towers eye appealing

I take no side in this matter since I have no dog in the fight. At this point I feel confident in saying I foresee neither side budging an inch.

Why not try to work together for a solution?

The military has had great success in making things seemingly disappear. Has either side asked for their advise?

If this doesn't work, how about running a contest to see if someone can make the towers into something "eye appealing?"
